

Company started by Damascus graduates celebr

An in-home senior care company started by three Damascus High School graduates was welcomed to the city of Annapolis this month.

Angels of Care, a company opened by Matthew Wozniak, Tyler Stott and Ryan Friedman to assist senior citizens and individuals with disabilities, was welcomed by Annapolis Mayor Joshua J. Cohen and Annapolis Economic Development Corporation President and CEO Lara Fritts during a ceremony this month.

They opened their Annapolis location, their first, in January.

"According to the Administration on Aging, seniors are the fastest growing population worldwide,"

Cohen said in a press release. "I applaud Angels of Care for serving a market in need of specialized care and thank them for choosing Annapolis as their base."

MORGAN YOUNG

All three men graduated from Damascus High School in 2004 and have degrees from Salisbury University.

Based out of the city, with offices on the second floor of 192 Duke of Gloucester Street, Angels of Care specializes in Alzheimer's disease and dementia care — assisting clients with accomplishing daily activities in their own home so that they can remain safe and independent.

The company serves Anne Arundel, Prince George's and Calvert counties, as well as parts of Baltimore, Queen Anne's, Charles, St. Mary's, Howard, Montgomery and Talbot counties.

For more information about Angels of Care call 443-837-7768 or go to www.myangelsofcare.com. The company is also available after business hours, at 410-972-7183.

ascus American Legion Post 171.

After losing a total of 24 members, 10 of whom died, the post's total number rose to 404 for the membership year from July 1, 2011 to June 30 — surpassing last year's total by three members.

Part of the nation's largest war-time veterans' service organization, the local post hopes to surpass its record of 411 members, according to Keith Midberry, the post's membership chairman.

"I'd like to get to 412 next year to break our all-time high," he said. "Most of the posts [across the country] are losing members so it's good we're still gaining."

Damascus DAR to celebrate patriotism at county fair

About 400 American flags were given to attendees at the Montgomery County Agricultural Fair last year by the Pleasant Plains of the Damascus Chapter, a number they hope to surpass this year.

The chapter will be passing out the free cloth flags Aug. 16, the fair's military day, from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. at the Izaak Walton booth. Free admission to the county fair is given to all active military in uniform or with a valid military identification until 5 p.m. on military day.

Campus congratulations

Two area students have been named to the dean's list at Lawrence University for the 2011-12 academic year

Camilla Grove of Clarksburg and Lauren Koeritzer of Damascus were placed on the Wisconsin school's list this month. Students must obtain a cumulative grade point average of at least a 3.4 in order to be named.

Grove, an English major, is the daughter of Diana Morgan of Clarksburg, and Lloyd Grove. Koeritzer, a voice performance major, is the daughter of Kenneth and Beth Koeritzer of Damascus.

Spanish speaking election judges needed

The Montgomery County Board of Elections is looking for Spanish speaking volunteers to act as election judges for the Nov. 6 presidential general election.

Those interested must be registered to vote in Maryland, 18 years of age or older, and a U.S. citizen. In addition to Spanish speaking fluency, election judges also must be able to speak, read, and write in English. Montgomery County residency is not a prerequisite to serve. All election judges will be compensated for training and for Election Day service.

If interested, contact the county Board of Elections at 240-777-8532, download an election judge questionnaire at www.777vote.org, or email Dr. Gilberto Zelaya at gilberto.zelaya@mont

Preparin

Maria Lempicki of Damascus puts a fresh coat of paint on the 4H horse barn on volunteer setup day, July 28.
